PROJECTS
Chitter-Chatter | Github | Deployed Project   January 2021
- Morale booster application that allows users to send public recognition posts, direct messages, and earn incentives to continue boosting company morale. (This application is still under maintenance)
- Responsible for setting up real-time middleware that allows a maximum of 200,000 messages and recognitions per channel daily.
- Implemented public recognitions by adjusting API's to only pull designated data.
- Utilizes MongoDB and mongoose NoSQL for data storage and retrieval.
- Utilizes JWT Authentication to authenticate users and prevent mishandling or user data

HealthApp | Github | Deployed Project   September 2020
- Collaborated with a team to create an application that allows users to search for local health-oriented businesses, track daily calorie intake, and calculate their recommended calorie intake based on individual needs and goals.
- Responsible for researching and creating API requests that were health oriented, and for creating a calorie calculator that would provide the recommended calorie intake based on the individual's health goals.
- Incorporates Semantic UI utilities including multiple dropdowns, containers, and inputs.
- Makes calls to 3 APIs, including Yelp, Zomato, and Nutritionix.
- Utilizes local storage to save all user data

Weather-Dashboard | Github | Deployed Project   August 2020
- Created a weather-dashboard that allows the user to retrieve a 5-day weather forecast. The forecast provides the date, current temperature, humidity, windspeed, and weather conditions.
- Utilizes Openweathermap API to retrieve weather data and forecasts.
- Utilizes Bootstrap features such as jumbotron, cards, containers, etc.
- Dynamically created HTML elements to create a clean HTML page.
